School board skirts collective bargaining in policy revisions

By RICH ADAMS

Parent-Teachers Organizations, American Federation of Teachers and Mississippi Association of Educators achieved a minor victory Monday when the Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School Board revised its policy against recognition of group representatives.

The board approved an amended version of its controversial 'Policy 18' setting up a 'chain of command' procedure for individuals wishing to appear before the board.

The new version of Policy 18 effectively strikes down the board's previous 'non-recognition' stand.

The rewritten policy sets added restrictions on speakers, but in the amended version the board agrees to discuss school matters with organized groups.

People desiring a spot on the board's agenda must still go through the 'chain of command,' but red tape is cut and easier access to the board through more flexible guidelines will be offered, the new policy states.

The amended version of the policy was unanimously accepted Monday, coming about after months of conflict between the board and organized groups.

In September, PTO members demanded a revision of the policy by Oct. 31, threatening the school district with a law suit if the deadline was not met.

Board Attorney Lucien Gex read the rewritten policy, and added the revision was "not a reaction to threats... of federal law suits."

"The board felt this was the right thing to do, and was not a reaction to threats," Gex read.

The amended policy requires a person to first discuss matters with the principal of the school in question, who will in turn respond to the complainant within two days.

If the response is not satisfactory, the person then discusses the matter with the superintendent, who also must respond within two days.

If after receiving a response from the superintendent the complainant is still dissatisfied, he may request to be placed on the board's agenda.

A ten-minute time limit for speakers was imposed in the policy, and adds a speaker will not "ramble on about real or imagined ills of the school board."

The policy also restricted persons addressing the board to keep their remarks to the board as a group and not address any one member of the board.

The guidelines also ban addressing members of the audience at meetings. The revision stated any representative of an organization such as the PTO must be authorized by that group to speak before the board.

The board stipulated spokesmen representing teachers' organizations may not discuss wages, hours, or working conditions with the board.

"The school board will not act as a third party on wages, hours, or working conditions," Gex read.

Bay St. Louis Federation of Teachers President Andrews Wilkinson expressed displeasure with the board's stand on teacher's problems, as reflected in Policy 18.

"I am disappointed with the board's attitude," said Wilkinson.

He said the board was not facing up to teachers problems on a "man-to-man basis," and added again he was very disappointed with the new policy.

North Bay PTO President Lana Noonan requested a copy of the guidelines, and added she never approached the board without authorization of the PTO.

The board unanimously accepted the amended policy.

In other action, Bay St. Louis schools Superintendent J. D. McCulloch said the new food service facility at Bay Junior High will be completed during the holiday break, which runs from 1:30 p.m. Dec. 19 to regular morning hours on Jan. 3.

He said a dishwasher is in transit to the school, which is the only remaining obstacle in opening the cafeteria.

Also at Monday's meeting, Bay High

Oil revenues no answer to classroom shortage

By LESLIE WILLIAMS

The Hancock County School Board rejected a member's suggestion Monday to use $681,000 in school district oil lease money to alleviate overcrowding.

Board Member Johnny Banks' suggestion to use oil lease money to construct a classroom at Hancock North Central followed HNC Principal Thad Haskins' request for suggestions on housing 26 sixth graders.

Haskins suggested a ticket booth or weight room at the school be modified into a classroom to meet Mississippi Board of Education accreditation standards in March.

The overcrowding of the sixth grade is only one of 29 existing deficiencies threatening HNC accreditation.

"Why don't we use a portion of the $681,000 we have in oil lease money to build a classroom at Hancock North Central," said Banks.

Board President Woodrow Ladner answered, "I don't think that's a good idea."

"I don't think spending the money to do that is a good idea," continued Ladner, "because we would lose money from the Educational Finance Commission (EFC)."

"We have the potential to acquire $244,000 in several months from the EFC if we spend money on projects approved by the EFC, but if we build classrooms with the school district's oil lease money now, there is no state money immediately available to match local funds," Ladner explained.

"Not only that," the board president continued, "but if we spend all of our local funds now, we won't have the local funds needed later to match EFC money when it does come available."

Superintendent Terry Randolph said a state bond, to supply EFC funds authorized by the last session of the State Legislature will not be sold until January with the funds possibly not available to local districts until April.

"We'll lose some of the money because before the EFC will supply funds to build classrooms, the con-

BEWARE THIS TIME OF YEAR

The Christmas Season is a time for many fast money games, according to Douglas Williams, Bay St. Louis police chief. If a Bay resident is approached by someone promoting the making of a fast buck or is seen in your neighborhood looking suspicious call the police at 467-6221. "We are on duty 24 hours a day. Help and tips from the residents enables us to prevent many crimes before they are committed and tips also help us solve crimes," stated Williams.

By LESLIE WILLIAMS

With Christmas only three weeks away, the mobile home of Brenda and Paul Ladner in Dedeaux Community was completely destroyed by fire, leaving them and their three children with only the clothes on their backs.

Ms. Ladner and four-year-old Schallisa visited the ruins on Old Vidalia Road where only memories remain where they had lived for one year, one month and a day.

"My grandfather died on Dec. 3 two years ago the same day the house burned down," remarked Ms. Ladner, "that's how I know we've been living here exactly one year, one month and a day."

"I think I went into shock when I first saw the flames coming out of the windows in the children's room—thank God none of us were in the trailer at the time," exclaimed Ms. Ladner, the former Brenda Bermond.

Ms. Ladner said she, her husband and their children were at a relative's home when she was informed her trailer-home was on fire.

"We lost everything, everything," Brenda Ladner lamented.

Brenda and Paul Ladner with their three children, Schallisa, 3-year-old Eschran and 13-month-old Schmann live between Rocky Hill and Dedeaux Community on Old Vidalia Road.

"The only thing we have left is the clothes on our backs," bemoaned Ms. Ladner.

"The fire took our children's clothes, our television, dryer, washer, furniture—everything we owned."

"The dishes my mother gave me, which were given to my mother by her mother were also lost along with my children's pictures, some old coins we had; dated back to the 1800's, my graduation souvenirs and other things of sentimental value," she continued.

Four-year-old Schallisa intervened, adding, "We lost my toothbrush, my picture, and Santa Claus too (referring to a Santa Claus ornament which was in the trailer)."

Ms. Ladner said the biggest problems they are faced with now are a lack of clothes for the children and themselves the need for a new place to live.

The couple and their children are presently living with her mother, Mrs. Lilly Bermond at 407 Ballentine St., Bay St. Louis.

Thus far, the family has received $25 from St. James Convent and a several articles of clothing from relatives to help them begin their recoup of the losses caused by the fire.

"I had just finished setting up the Christmas tree the Wednesday before the fire. I also had the Christmas gifts of my sister-in-law, Adell Ladner, stored in my closet. Now all that's lost," Ms. Ladner elaborated.

"It hurts me to look at the burnt

Five 1974 murder trials bring first convictions in 20 years

By RICH ADAMS

The 1974 convictions of two men charged with slaying a Pearllington store owner are the only successful Hancock County murder prosecutions since the 1953 capital punishment trial of Mack C. Lewis.

Those two convictions required five trials.

Bernard "Wildman" Curry, and Alfred Thomas Jr. were tried and convicted for the Aug. 31, 1973 shooting death of Pearllington grocer Forrest Summers.

Curry and Thomas were both given life sentences by Hancock County Circuit Court Judge Rubel Griffin for committing the crime.

Thomas stood trial four times: the first resulting in a mistrial, the second a conviction, the third a reversal of the conviction by the State Supreme Court, and finally, the fourth in a guilty verdict in Hancock County.

Curry was a fugitive from justice in Hancock County until he was apprehended on Jan. 22, 1974 in New Orleans after unknowingly hitching a ride to Louisiana with a Hancock County Sheriff's Deputy according to newspaper accounts at the time.

While Curry was being transported to the state penitentiary, he was reportedly conversing with the deputy who was transporting him. Curry reportedly told the deputy he was a fugitive from justice.

Lee reported Curry's location to the New Orleans police, who were depositing him in the Orleans Parish Prison.

Lee was paid $7,000 for his services.

County labor grows; stats show paradox

By LESLIE WILLIAMS

Ironically, a growing labor force in Hancock County is causing a trend of increasing unemployment and employment in the county, reports the Mississippi Employment Security Commission.

By comparing workers employed during October 1977 and September 1978 to workers employed this year during October, a trend of increasing employment and unemployment is shown in the county.

The reason for this is a steadily growing labor force in the area.

Labor statistics show the county total labor force grew from 7,450 in October, 1977 to 7,480 in October, 1978.

Monthly growth in the total county labor force is also shown, with 7,430 in the labor force in September, 1978 compared to 7,460 in the total county labor force during October, the same year.

MMCC tightens redfish rules

The Mississippi Marine Conservation Commission, at its meeting this week in Biloxi, acted on resolutions affecting the taking of redfish, speckle trout, shrimp and oysters.

The state's fisheries management agency tightened regulations Monday on the taking of redfish by sport and commercial fishermen, while opening the area around the barrier islands to some commercial fishing.

The Commission also narrowly defeated a measure that would have eliminated size requirements for shrimp caught in legal areas.

The commissioners voted to prohibit both commercial and sport fishermen from keeping more than two redfish 30 inches and longer. Sport fishermen also will be prohibited from keeping more than 10 redfish per day.

Under an MMCC ordinance, passed in May, fishermen were allowed no more than two redfish longer than 35 inches. Sport fishermen were allowed no more than 50 speckled trout and redfish per day or more than 150 for a three-day period.

director, said after Monday's meeting that sport fishermen will be allowed a total of 180 redfish and speckled trout for a three-day catch, as long as no more than 30 are redfish and no more than 150 are speckled trout.

The commission amended another ordinance to prohibit commercial fishermen from catching redfish in October, the species' chief spawning month.

Commercial fishermen will be allowed to fish within one mile of the barrier islands from Monday to Thursday noon each week from May 15 to Sept. 15.

The area around Horn Island, however, will be closed to commercial fishing on Wednesdays and commercial fishing around the barrier islands will not be prohibited on holidays, the commission decided.

Commissioner Bobby O'Barr of Biloxi said he recommended the amendments on the basis of two meetings last month between commercial and sports fishermen and several commissioners.

Both sport and commercial fishermen had complained of scanty redfish catches this fall. Commercial fishermen said at one of the meetings that opening the barrier islands to fishing would allow them to catch other kinds of fish and thus relax the pressure on taking redfish.

The commission failed by two votes to approve an ordinance proposed by Leard that would have eliminated size requirements for shrimp caught in areas opened for shrimping by the commission.

Under current law, shrimp caught in Mississippi waters must count at least 68 to a pound.

In introducing the ordinance, Leard said the commission would "continue to do our sampling as we have in the past," and would use the 68-to-a-pound count to determine when shrimp season should be opened.

"There's no need and it's very wasteful" for fishermen to throw smaller shrimp overboard, he said, because the shrimp are dead by the time they are brought on board.

Commissioner L. D. Gollott of Biloxi, one of two commissioners present who voted against the ordinance, said the legislature passed the limit "to keep people from taking all the little shrimp and the baby shrimp."

Commission chairman Glenn Williams of Ocean Springs and MMCC Counsel Lucien Gex said that because of the way the current law is written, shrimpers who catch smaller shrimp are breaking the law even if the fish are thrown overboard immediately.

Section 49-15-3k of the Mississippi Code says it is "unlawful for any person firm or corporation to take, catch or have in their possession" shrimp smaller than 68 to a pound.

Counsel Lucien Gex said nine affirmative votes would be needed to pass the ordinance because the Mississippi Code section says an affirmative vote by two-thirds of the commission is needed to change the size requirement, not two-thirds of the commissioners present at a meeting.

None of the commission's 13 members were present. Gollott and commissioner Joseph Gex of Bay St. Louis voted against the ordinance, while the other seven were in favor.

Leard said after the meeting that he will introduce the ordinance again at a later date.

In other business, the commission: Extended from Dec. 19 to Jan. 8 the time allowed for transfer of oysters from polluted waters to acreage leased by private individuals or corporations.

Agreed to discuss with the Mobile district office of U.S. Army Corps of Engineers why the federal agency requires potential oyster lessees to obtain a permit before relaying oysters. Leard said the permit costs $100 and that oyster farmers have told him the corps does not require such a permit in other states.

Band Boosters spokesman Grace Gibson presented a plea to the board for a new band hall.

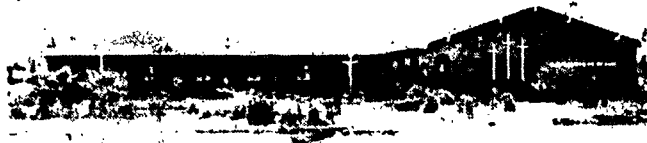

Ms. Gibson said Bay High is the only school in the state without a band hall. She said the Southern Association of Schools has reported "music is basic to education," and a team from the SAS which evaluated Bay High said a band hall is top priority on a list of necessities for the school system.

Ms. Gibson said the third-floor band room at the junior high school which is presently being used by the senior high band is inadequate and hazardous.

"We can't build a band hall, and our students are being cheated," she said. She suggested an old Bay St. Louis fire station, acquired by the school system earlier this year, be used as a band hall.

No comment on Ms. Gibson's suggestion was rendered by the board.

Unemployment, on the other hand, rose 1.1 percent compared to October labor statistics of the previous year.

The employment commission reports total employment increasing in the county from September 1978 to October 1978 by 30 laborers.

A monthly comparison reveals unemployment ascending 60 workers from September 1978 to October 1978, a 1.2 percent rise.

BUCCANEER CREW NOTES

I do believe the winter weather has finally arrived on the Gulf Coast. Many of the Northerners who camp at Buccaneer State Park want to know what happened to the warm days and nights, and locals who camp at the park want to know if the cooler weather is going to be with us for a while.

I imagine that campers' views on the ideal camping weather vary as much as the campers themselves. Campers need to keep in mind the term flexibility. Adjusting to the changing weather makes camping much more interesting!

During the off-season, campers who travel in recreational vehicles can store their campers at the Park at the charge of $1.00 per day. The campers are left on sites and the electricity and sewer is unhooked.

The Park cannot be responsible for theft of the campers, but the Park is properly patrolled by Rangers throughout the day and night. Storage of recreational vehicles is one more way the State Park System is trying to be of service to those who enjoy camping.

NOTICE

Notice to the people on Bayou LaCrosse and the Bayou LaCrosse Community. During our annual inspection of the roads and bridges, we discovered faulty bridge pilings which are a hazard to heavy traffic and buses. I declared this matter an emergency and was approved by all of the Board of Supervisors. I acted promptly and accepted three bids and accepted the lowest bid. The bridge construction started Nov. 12, 1978 and will hopefully be completed with a concrete bridge by Jan. 2, 1979, weather permitting. Your cooperation will be greatly appreciated.

Beware the reporter!

We receive from time to time requests from individuals who have made presentations before public bodies to adjust the reporting of that presentation in one way or another in support of the special interests of that individual.

This type of request is generally accompanied by the plea, 'I didn't know there was a reporter present.'

We do not understand why the presence of a reporter - serving as the eyes and ears of the general public - should affect an honest and straight forward presentation or proposal before a public body composed of men and women elected or appointed to represent the interests of the voters at large primarily, and the special interests of corporations, associations, societies, clubs or individuals secondarily.

We would like to assure our readers that, manpower limitations permitting, representatives of the Sea Coast Echo will be present at any and all meetings of duly constituted public bodies in Hancock County, and we will present to our readers, space permitting, all aspects of those proceedings which in our professional judgement are of interest to the greatest number of our readers.

Such an effort on our part is no less than our duty and our trust.

struction plans must call for removal of all seven temporary classrooms from the grounds at HNC," Ladner added. "The $681,000 in oil lease monies we have," continued Ladner, "is not enough to build all classrooms needed."

"We would be out more than $900,000—the $681,000 in oil lease monies and $244,000 from the EFC," said Ladner.

Moving of all seven trailers would be impossible with only $681,000, Ladner added.

The EFC provides $15 in construction money for every square foot of classroom space, said School Board Superintendent Terrell Randolph.

Board Member Monvel Cuevas noted, "The cost per square foot of classroom space is $30, said Board Member Monvel Cuevas, the board would have to pay $15 for every square foot to match the EFC funds or, if the cost per square foot were less, the board would have to pay any amount greater than $15 per square foot."

Randolph said the EFC will not release the Hancock County School District for building classrooms until the $3.4 million school bond issue election is decided.

Regardless of whether the school bond issue fails or passes, the school district will still receive the money from the EFC, said Randolph, but if the bond issue passes, EFC priorities for spending the money will change.

But, continued Randolph, if the bond issue fails, there will be a shortage of $3 million needed to solve the problems of the Hancock County School District.

If the bond issue passes, the oil lease and EFC monies can be used to finance roof repairs and classroom construction at HNC, as well as needed classrooms and library facilities at Gulfview and Charles B. Murphy Elementary, the superintendent pointed out.

The bond issue will also finance the $214,346 construction of classrooms for handicapped students from Silver Creek School, who will become the responsibility of the Hancock County School District May 30.

In addition, a new junior-senior high school facility costing $2,204,808 is planned in the southwestern portion of the county.

Randolph said enrollment in the Hancock County School District has increased from 1971 to 1978 by 25 percent or exactly 508 students.

remains of my home," said Brenda Ladner, "I loved cleaning up my home—I always kept it clean."

"Life for us is going to be hard now. I cried and cried when I saw our trailer burning and then Schallisa started crying because I was crying," declared Ms. Ladner.

"Christmas burned up with our home, with the tree and lights and gifts. Christmas just will not be the same this year, it just will not be the same," lamented Brenda Ladner.

Construction increases in Waveland

By LESLIE WILLIAMS

Some 25 percent more homes were built in Waveland than in Bay St. Louis during October, states the Mississippi Research and Development Center Gulf Coast Branch Office.

Permits have been issued for construction on eight homes with an estimated value of $373,372 in Waveland, while construction starts on only two homes valued at $75,650 were licensed in Bay St. Louis during October.

Waveland issued one commercial construction permit with a value of $500 while Bay St. Louis had no new commercial construction during the period. Double the number of alterations, additions and repair permits sold in Bay St. Louis were sold in Waveland.

Alterations, additions and repairs to homes in Waveland during October was estimated at $411,872.

In Bay St. Louis, alterations, additions and repairs to homes was estimated at $109,850 for the same month.

Total construction in Waveland from January, 1978 to October 1978 is estimated at $3,015,293 in contrast to Bay St. Louis' estimate of $2,578,307.

The Mississippi Employment Security Commission obtained the construction permit data from city and county building officials.

Hugh Downs on UNICEF

The Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis

Dear Citizens:

There are two visions about the future of mankind. One is uncertain, tense, and frightening. But the other is a hopeful image of what the world could be like if we take action now to give today's children a chance to grow into useful and happy citizens. By your dedicated work for UNICEF, you have helped to ensure this brighter possibility.

In the coming year, your contribution and those of others across the country will work to help UNICEF expand services for children in the greatest need, while serving as a gesture of support for the objectives of the International Year of the Child, 1979.

Programs begun now can bring dramatic and lasting improvements in the condition of needy children. For example, more rural primary schools in Sri Lanka, new village water supply systems in Guatemala, and in Kenya, programs to teach mothers child care and simple food production methods, have now become attainable goals.

The needs of deprived children persist, but so does our vision of what can be accomplished. The remarkable success of your UNICEF program this year demonstrates that you share in that vision, and that you have convinced others in your community, young and old alike, that it is worthwhile.

As the new Chairman of the Board of the U.S. Committee for UNICEF, I hope to carry out my responsibilities with the same spirit and commitment. To you and to everyone involved in your UNICEF campaign, I extend our most heartfelt thanks.

Sincerely,
Hugh Downs

Social Security proposal rapped

SUBJECT: PROPOSED VALUE ADDED TAX

United States Senator Russell B. Long
United States Senate
Washington, D.C.

Honorable Senator Long:

I read with real concern the article that appeared by Millie Ball in the Times Picayune of Dec. 1st, 1978 relating to your desire to repeal the present Social Security taxes and the creation of a national tax on goods and service.

I am 67 years old and have been on social security since the age of 65. I am one of the many senior citizens who contributed the maximum amount of tax from the very first day that social security was established to the day I became 65 years old.

So what I am saying is - I have paid in full for the social security check (now worth half of what it was just ten years ago) that I receive each month, and you are advocating that we who have paid for our social security start paying for it all over again.

If I understand your proposal correctly, this is exactly what you are saying. No more taxes paid by the employee or the employer to pay for social security; instead, every one including we who have already paid for the monthly payment we receive will be compelled to pay 10 - 20 percent on all goods or services we much purchase to exist.

I am a very active member of the A.A.R.P. and cannot help but wonder if you have given any thought to the eleven million members of this national organization or to the many more senior citizens who are not members of the AARP as to how they will feel if told they must pay again for the social security check they receive each month - not directly as they paid for it the first time, but this time they will be compelled to pay an additional V.A.T. tax of 10 to 20 percent on all the goods or services they purchase.

One cannot pick up a newspaper without seeing articles about higher taxes at all levels, and usually on the same page you would also find articles about the graft and corruption that is taking place, again, at all levels of our government.

From where we are sitting, it would seem to us if those people who are trying so hard to raise and collect more taxes would exert that same energy towards eliminating the graft and corruption in government, more money could be made available for needed services.

And while we are on the subject of more and higher taxes, we cannot help but recall what happened in California with the passage of Proposition No. 13. I understood this to mean - the people are tired of paying more and more taxes - they want and need some relief.

So you have the personal feelings of one retired senior citizen, one who has raised seven children and assisted each to secure a college education, all without the aid or assistance of the government or anyone else - one who has stood on his own two feet thruout and with the competent assistance of my wife have managed to do this with no handouts.

Yours very truly,
Paul F. Loup

Gentlemen:

It is with deep regret that I read the biased, misinformed article presented on Diamondhead in the Sea Coast Echo last week in which I was seriously misquoted.

Attached is the letter I am sending to Mr. Cuevas requesting a correction. I believe we, at Diamondhead, have an excellent working relationship with all the officials of Hancock County, and I hope this attempt at sensationalism by the Echo is accepted for what it is, and is not allowed to interfere with the progress of Diamondhead and Hancock County.

Please accept my sincerest apologies for any problems or comments caused by the Echo article on Diamondhead last week.

Editor
Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis

Dear Sirs:

Last Tuesday night, one of your reporters attended a Hancock County Planning and Zoning Commission meeting and wrote an article on that meeting in the Sea Coast Echo of Thursday, Dec. 7, 1978.

The article was entitled "Diamondhead Eyes Municipal Status", and there was very little in common between the discussion which took place at that meeting and your article. The meeting, attendees, subject and results were not even noted in your article, although excerpts, misquotes, and exaggerations were common. I offer the following as a factual report on the meeting:

Last Tuesday night, Diamondhead requested permission from the Hancock County Planning Commission to open two (2) new areas of Diamondhead for development. These areas: Pine Ridge and Fairway Estates, will eventually provide some 250 new homesites and bring several additional miles of road, water and sewer into the county. The Planning Commission members asked many questions relevant to the progress of Diamondhead and the probable future course of growth. The following were the pertinent questions asked at that meeting, and the replies:

Q: How many more lots has Diamondhead developed?

A: Approximately 2,500 lots.

Q: When does the Diamondhead Corporation leave Diamondhead, and what will happen?

A: In 1985, the Diamondhead Corporation turns over management of the project to the property owners. At that time, the property owners must decide on the course of the development. They may remain a private development and continue the status quo or they may elect to incorporate and form a municipality or they may ask that the county accept the dedicated right of ways.

Q: What do you think will happen?

A: Under the existing conditions, I believe it would be logical for the owners to incorporate, possibly having a municipal manager with elected officials. This would allow for tax money to be utilized to maintain the city streets and services, while the amenities could still be kept private for the property owners.

Q: What happens if the people want to turn the streets over to the county for maintenance?

A: At that time, the county would have the option of acceptance. Normally, the county asks that the streets meet the county standards at the time of acceptance.

Q: Do Diamondhead streets meet the county standards?

A: All Diamondhead construction is to state and county specifications. Today's report by Mr. Murray indicates that at present, some 75 of the 84 miles of completed roadway at Diamondhead are acceptable as is. Diamondhead has an on-going maintenance as well as development program.

Q: What have the Diamondhead streets cost the county to date?

A: Of the 84 miles of roadway completed to date, not a nickel of tax money has been spent for construction. The county has recently resurfaced the county road which runs through Diamondhead; the other roadways are Diamondhead's responsibility for maintenance.

Q: What happens if all these roads are dumped on the county in 1985?

A: Remember that the county would only be assuming maintenance on completed roads. The big money is in construction. Also, the tax base at Diamondhead is so large that the maintenance cost-tax income ratio would be very favorable.

Q: How much tax does Diamondhead pay?

A: I understand Diamondhead property taxes are in the range of $500,000 per year, and rapidly growing. By 1985, I believe Diamondhead will have contributed in excess of $8,000,000 in taxes to the county. Any possible road maintenance costs when compared to the tax income are negligible.

The County Planning Commission, after the above discussion, recommended unanimously to the Board of Supervisors that the new developments be approved.

In your article on Diamondhead last Thursday in the Echo, no mention was made of the real news, the fact that Diamondhead is expanding, and new areas are being developed. I realized from the questions your reporter asked after the meeting that he was not properly informed, and I even spelled out the names of Pine Ridge and Fairway Estates, the new developments for him, but neither name appeared in your article.

On the Wednesday morning after the meeting, I called you personally and asked to check the story for facts, and you replied that it was against policy to permit censorship, but that you personally would check the story for accuracy.

I do not believe the article as printed reflects the facts of the Planning Commission meeting, and I would appreciate your correcting your story, and request equal space on your front page for the correction.

Sincerely,
Paul L. Vegas

True equality!

Editor
The Sea Coast Echo
Dear Sir:

At a recent Board of Supervisors meeting, "Beat" Supervisor Oscar Peterson stated he could not support the Hancock County school bond issue because the school proposed for the southern part of the county would be unequal to the current facilities at Hancock North Central High School. (When asked to point out the equalities, he said they would have a new gymnasium.)

Mr. Peterson added that as long as equal facilities were not included in this issue, he would stand by his decision. Using this logic, I suggest we tear down the present High School facilities at North Central. The southern end of the county has nothing, therefore we should have the same.

True equality!

Murder Trials...

reward posted by the Gulf Coast Crime Commission.

In Curry's trial, which began Oct. 15, 1974, four-and-one-half hours were required to screen 44 jurors. The all-white male jury was settled on at 5:38 p.m. by both then Defense Attorney Joseph Benvenuti and state prosecutors, District Attorney Albert Necaise, Assistant D.A. Joe Sam Peters, and then Hancock County Prosecutor J. P. Compretta.

During questioning, Necaise referred to Curry by his nickname, "Wildman," and Benvenuti requested a mistrial. Judge Griffin overruled the objection and cautioned the District Attorney to refrain referring to the defendant by his nickname.

Curry's trial lasted two days, and on Oct. 17, 1974, Curry was sentenced to life in prison.

During testimony, it was revealed Curry had entered Summers' store with intent to stage a robbery, but fatally wounded Summers when the storeowner approached the would-be robber.

Summers' wife, an eyewitness to the slaying, told the court her 66-year-old husband was hard of hearing.

During the trial, court-appointed defense attorney Benvenuti tried to suppress a statement made by Curry to New Orleans police officers.

With the jury absent from the courtroom, Curry said he was subjected to police brutality in giving his confession.

Griffin allowed the confession into the record after ruling that he did not believe Curry was the victim of such "heinous acts by the police."

The jury required only 25 minutes deliberation before returning the guilty verdict against Curry.

Thomas was tried in October for the second time following a mistrial in July, 1974.

Thomas was charged with driving the getaway car in which he and Curry fled the murder scene.

Thomas was defended by attorney Max Mercer, who moved for a mistrial after the state's key witness failed to appear to deliver testimony.

State witness Isaac Oliver failed to appear to deliver testimony on Oct. 23, 1974. He had been confined at the Picayune Jail prior to the trial, but disappeared after he was released the day before his scheduled testimony.

Oliver had been subpoenaed earlier to testify in Curry's trial.

Oliver reportedly gave authorities statements following Summers' murder, saying he recognized Thomas as being in a car with Curry after the grocer was slain.

Griffin entered Oliver's testimony from Curry's trial at the request of Necaise.

Thomas' attorney objected to the admission of Oliver's testimony, contending the District Attorney was trying to hide the witness.

Mercer called for a mistrial, and the judge took his motion under advisement.

Thomas' trial lasted two days, and on Friday, Oct. 25, Judge Griffin sentenced him to life imprisonment.

Necaise had emphasized to the jury that Thomas had helped another man commit a felony, and was just as guilty as the man who actually pulled the trigger.

A reversal of the court's decision by the State Supreme Court resulted in a fourth trial, which again resulted in a conviction and life sentence.

Drug Paraphernalia displayed at Library

By JOE PILET

There is still time for those interested in the early history of Bay St. Louis to see an interesting exhibit of early pharmaceutical paraphernalia now on display in the Bay St. Louis City-County Public Library's Bicentennial display case.

The articles will be removed at the end of December, according to Mrs. Rene de Montluzin who owns the artifacts, now nearing a hundred years old.

Arranged in sequence, the display contains a photograph of the original Bay St. Louis Drug Store, one of the first five drug stores within the State of Mississippi and established in 1878 by L. A. deMontluzin.

"The building was situated on the Beach side of Front Street and approximately across from the Mauffray Hardware Store," explained Mrs. de Montluzin, who added the building burned in a great fire during 1897 when many beach front homes and stores were destroyed, including buildings of St. Stanislaus College and St. Joseph's Academy.

A photograph of the second building which housed the drug store shows a scene of the interior where Rene de Montluzin Sr. and later his son, Rene Jr. carried on business until the building was destroyed in 1969 during Hurricane Camille.

After the storm the late Rene de Montluzin Jr., grandson of the founder, operated the drug store relocated on Main Street.

The operation of the business was discontinued on New Year's Day 1977 following the death of the owner, who had planned a centennial celebration.

By invitation from the City-County Library, Mrs. de Montluzin displayed her artifacts in commemoration of the centennial of the founding of the drug store, as well as an educational gesture.

Of uncommon interest are the apothecary bottles fitted with cut crystal stoppers and having gold leaf labels printed in Latin.

"Such bottles were found in all drug stores until recent years," said Mrs. de Montluzin.

A cachet maker, forerunner of today's capsule, may be seen on the second shelf. The machine came from Paris and Mrs. de Montluzin said medicine in powder form was placed on a thin wafer, a second wafer was placed on top and the edges of the wafers were then sealed.

The resulting dosage, about the size of a five cents coin, was swallowed by the patient. Also to be seen is a device known as a Pill Maker.

Medicine of dough-like consistency was put on the brass plate, a grooved handle was then passed through it, resulting in thin strips of dough.

Strips were cut into small squares and the pharmacist then used his thumb and forefinger to roll the squares into pills.

Because of his practice he was frequently referred to as a "pill roller."

A precision balance scale used for measuring small amounts of powder medication is on display. In the drawer of this scale was kept apothecary weights.

Few people are aware that Bay St. Louis once had a prescription bottle making business. De Montluzin Drug Store was one of its customers and on display is a bottle, personalized with both name and monogram of the L. A. deMontluzin Drug Store.

Name is blown, glass bottle is delicate lavender in color.

One of the first Coca Cola bottles may also be seen. Unlike the present hour-glass shaped coke bottles, this bottle had rather squarish sides.

Choctaw Indians living in Bay St. Louis during the early days of the town made handsome baskets of swamp grass.

On display is one such basket, tray like in size and design, and it was used to display small items such as brushes, shoe laces, etc. on the counter.

Made of iron, a Cork Press is on exhibit and Mrs. deMontluzin said corks in several sizes were in plentiful supply.

The pharmacist would select a cork of about the right size for his bottle, squeeze it in the cork press to compress it, and then push it into the neck of the bottle. When the cork expanded the bottle was tightly sealed!

A mortar and pestle made of earthenware is on display. Emblem of the trade, these items are still a part of today's pharmacist's equipment.

Today's models are made of heavy glass. Some early models were of iron or brass. These are sought after as "collector items." The purpose of mortar and pestle was to grind and mix certain medications.

An assortment of seven early patent medicine bottles in a variety of shapes and sizes and used from Victorian times on into the early 1900's is displayed. Corks were used to stopper these early bottles. Snap on caps and screw type tops came into use in later years.

For newcomers to the library, the Bicentennial Display Case is at right of the main entrance.

HNC students visit computer center

Two math classes at Hancock North Central saw the workings of a computer system first-hand on a trip to the computer center at Ingall's Shipbuilding in Pascagoula.

In addition to the computer center, the students saw how engineering is involved in

The class was Linda Lenhart's geometry class composed of sophomores, juniors, and seniors from HNC.

RSVP Seniors 'Make Merry'--300 strong at Waveland's Legion Hall

The Retired Senior Volunteer Program honored 300 volunteers at an annual Christmas recognition party Tuesday, at the American Legion Hall in Waveland.

RSVP director, Theresa James greeted volunteers and guests, including Jerry Thompson, ACTION's state program officer, and Norman Harris, executive director, Council on Aging, both of Jackson.

Invocation was given by Rev. Charles Clark, pastor of First Assembly of God, Waveland.

Pledge to the flag was led by Fred Horn, and Marie Saucier sang the Star Spangled Banner.

Mrs. James thanked the volunteers for their service to the community, stating that Hancock County is the beneficiary of more than 60,000 volunteer hours per year, which, if translated into monetary value of $2 per hour, amounts to $120,000 per year. The following awards were given:

New members, receiving ribbons were Agnes Inch, Lucille Guthrie, Jenny Taconi, Ivory Williams, Eunice Arnold, June Schneider, Joseph Discon, Ione Wainwright, Thomas Cain, Aloise Shiyou, Clara Cora Martin, Violette Bradford, Juliette Mathis, Tuletar Oliver, Juanita Vaughn, Floyd Willis, Frank Bussey, Martha Fairchild, and Anna Mae Ladner.

One year certificates were awarded to Maggie Damborino, Kenneth McKenna, Norma McKenna, Thelma White, Gladys Discon, Nina Garner, Mary McGrath, Hertha Garcia Morris, Herman Fayard, Margaret May, Lucie Bradt, Evangeline Joseph and Dolores Curry, provided organ music for the program, and Mr. and Mrs. Punzo who entertained the volunteers with their dancing.

Santa Claus arrived along with Mrs. Santa and two elves. Santa distributed the gifts guests had brought for one another.

Carols were sung by the Singing Seniors, with solos by Marie Saucier and a duet by Susan Smith and Charles Johnson.

Special door prizes were donated by Security Savings and Loan, Santa's Forest, with one special door prize made by Gladys Discon, ceramics instructor at the Center.

"RSVP would also like to thank the American Legion Post 77 for kindly allowing us to use their hall for this special occasion," Mrs. James said.

The quilting class donated two pot holders and one stuffed animal for door prizes as well.

"Thanks go also to the following ladies for making muffins for the party: Esther

NASA government, industrial personnel give $85,000 to UW

Gulf Coast federal agencies at the official close of their Combined Federal Campaign (CFC) have gone resoundingly over their goals with a total collection of $348,000.

This amount is $8,000 over the ambitious target set by Jerry Hlass, CFC Chairman, and $28,000 more than the combined individual goals of each agency.

Estimates are that about $6,000 more will be added when personnel stationed locally but temporarily deployed overseas will return in a few weeks with their pledges.

Funds collected during the campaign go to united campaigns in four Mississippi counties, two Louisiana parishes, and National Health and International Service Agencies.

The CFC was sponsored by the Mississippi Coast Association of the Federal Administrators (MCAFA) to coordinate the collection of funds by federal agencies located between Bay St. Louis and Pascagoula.

Federal personnel at these agencies (as well as industrial personnel) provide a substantial amount of the United Way funds received by charitable organizations in Pearl River, Jackson, Hancock and Harrison Counties and St. Tammany and Orleans Parishes in Louisiana.

The greatest single amount was collected by Keesler Air Force Base, which provided $192,000 or 55 percent of its goal.

The next highest amount came from the group of federal agencies at the National Space Technology Laboratories (NSTL), Bay St. Louis, which collected $48,000 also 55 percent of their combined goals.

Industrial personnel at NSTL contributing separately to the campaign gave $37,000.

The Navy Construction Battalion Center in Gulfport exceeded its goal of $40,000, and the small Navy office in Pascagoula raised $28,000 or 80 percent of its goal.

"I want to congratulate all the individual CFC agency chairmen who led campaigns that inspired their people to open their hearts and their pocketbooks to the United Way," stated Hlass, who serves as NSTL Manager.

"The fact that our combined campaign went well over its target helps to assure all the United Way organizations in this area will be fully funded to their highly important work in serving the residents," Hlass stated.

GULF OIL PRESIDENT James E. Lee of Pittsburg, Pa., a Hancock County native, addresses the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce Annual Banquet at Diamondhead Country Club Dec. 8. Lee blasted government regulation of the oil industry and federal deficit spending as principal causes of energy shortages and inflation, respectively. (Staff photo - Edgar Perez)

About 30,000 foreign tourists will be allowed into Russia during the 1980 Olympic Games, together with 12,000 officials and athletes, 3,000 guests, and 7,400 from the news media. In addition, 300,000 Soviet tourists will be admitted. Moscow believes this will be the ultimate extent of the nations hospitality capabilities during the games.

Bay High remains winless after loss to Jackets, Rocks

The St. Stanislaus Rock-A-Chows ignited for 17 points in the fourth quarter of an inter-city rivalry with Bay High to defeat the Tigers, 68-55.

The Rocks had three players scoring in double-figures enroute to the win. Kerry Carr led the Stanislaus cagers with 20 points, followed by Charlie Vincent and Jeff Wallace with 11 points each.

Bay High was held to seven points in the fourth period of the game and also had three players in the double-figures. Thyron Williams led scoring with 12 points. Thomas Bailey and Tony Raboteau tallied for 11 points.

The Tigers lost another Pascagoula River Conference game this week as the St. Martin Yellowjackets stung the Tigers for a 68-42 loss. Raboteau was the only double-figure scorer for the Tigers in that game with ten points.

The Tigerettes tamed the Lady Jackets 62-31 in girls court action against St. Martin.

Janet Sheppard was high scorer for the Tigerettes with 18 points, followed by Karen Tillman with 13 points and Tammy Raboteau netting 10.

The Bay High ladies were reported as losing a game last week to the Vancleave Lady Bulldogs, 43-35.

The Tigerettes in fact defeated the Vancleave five to increase their winnings to 3-5.

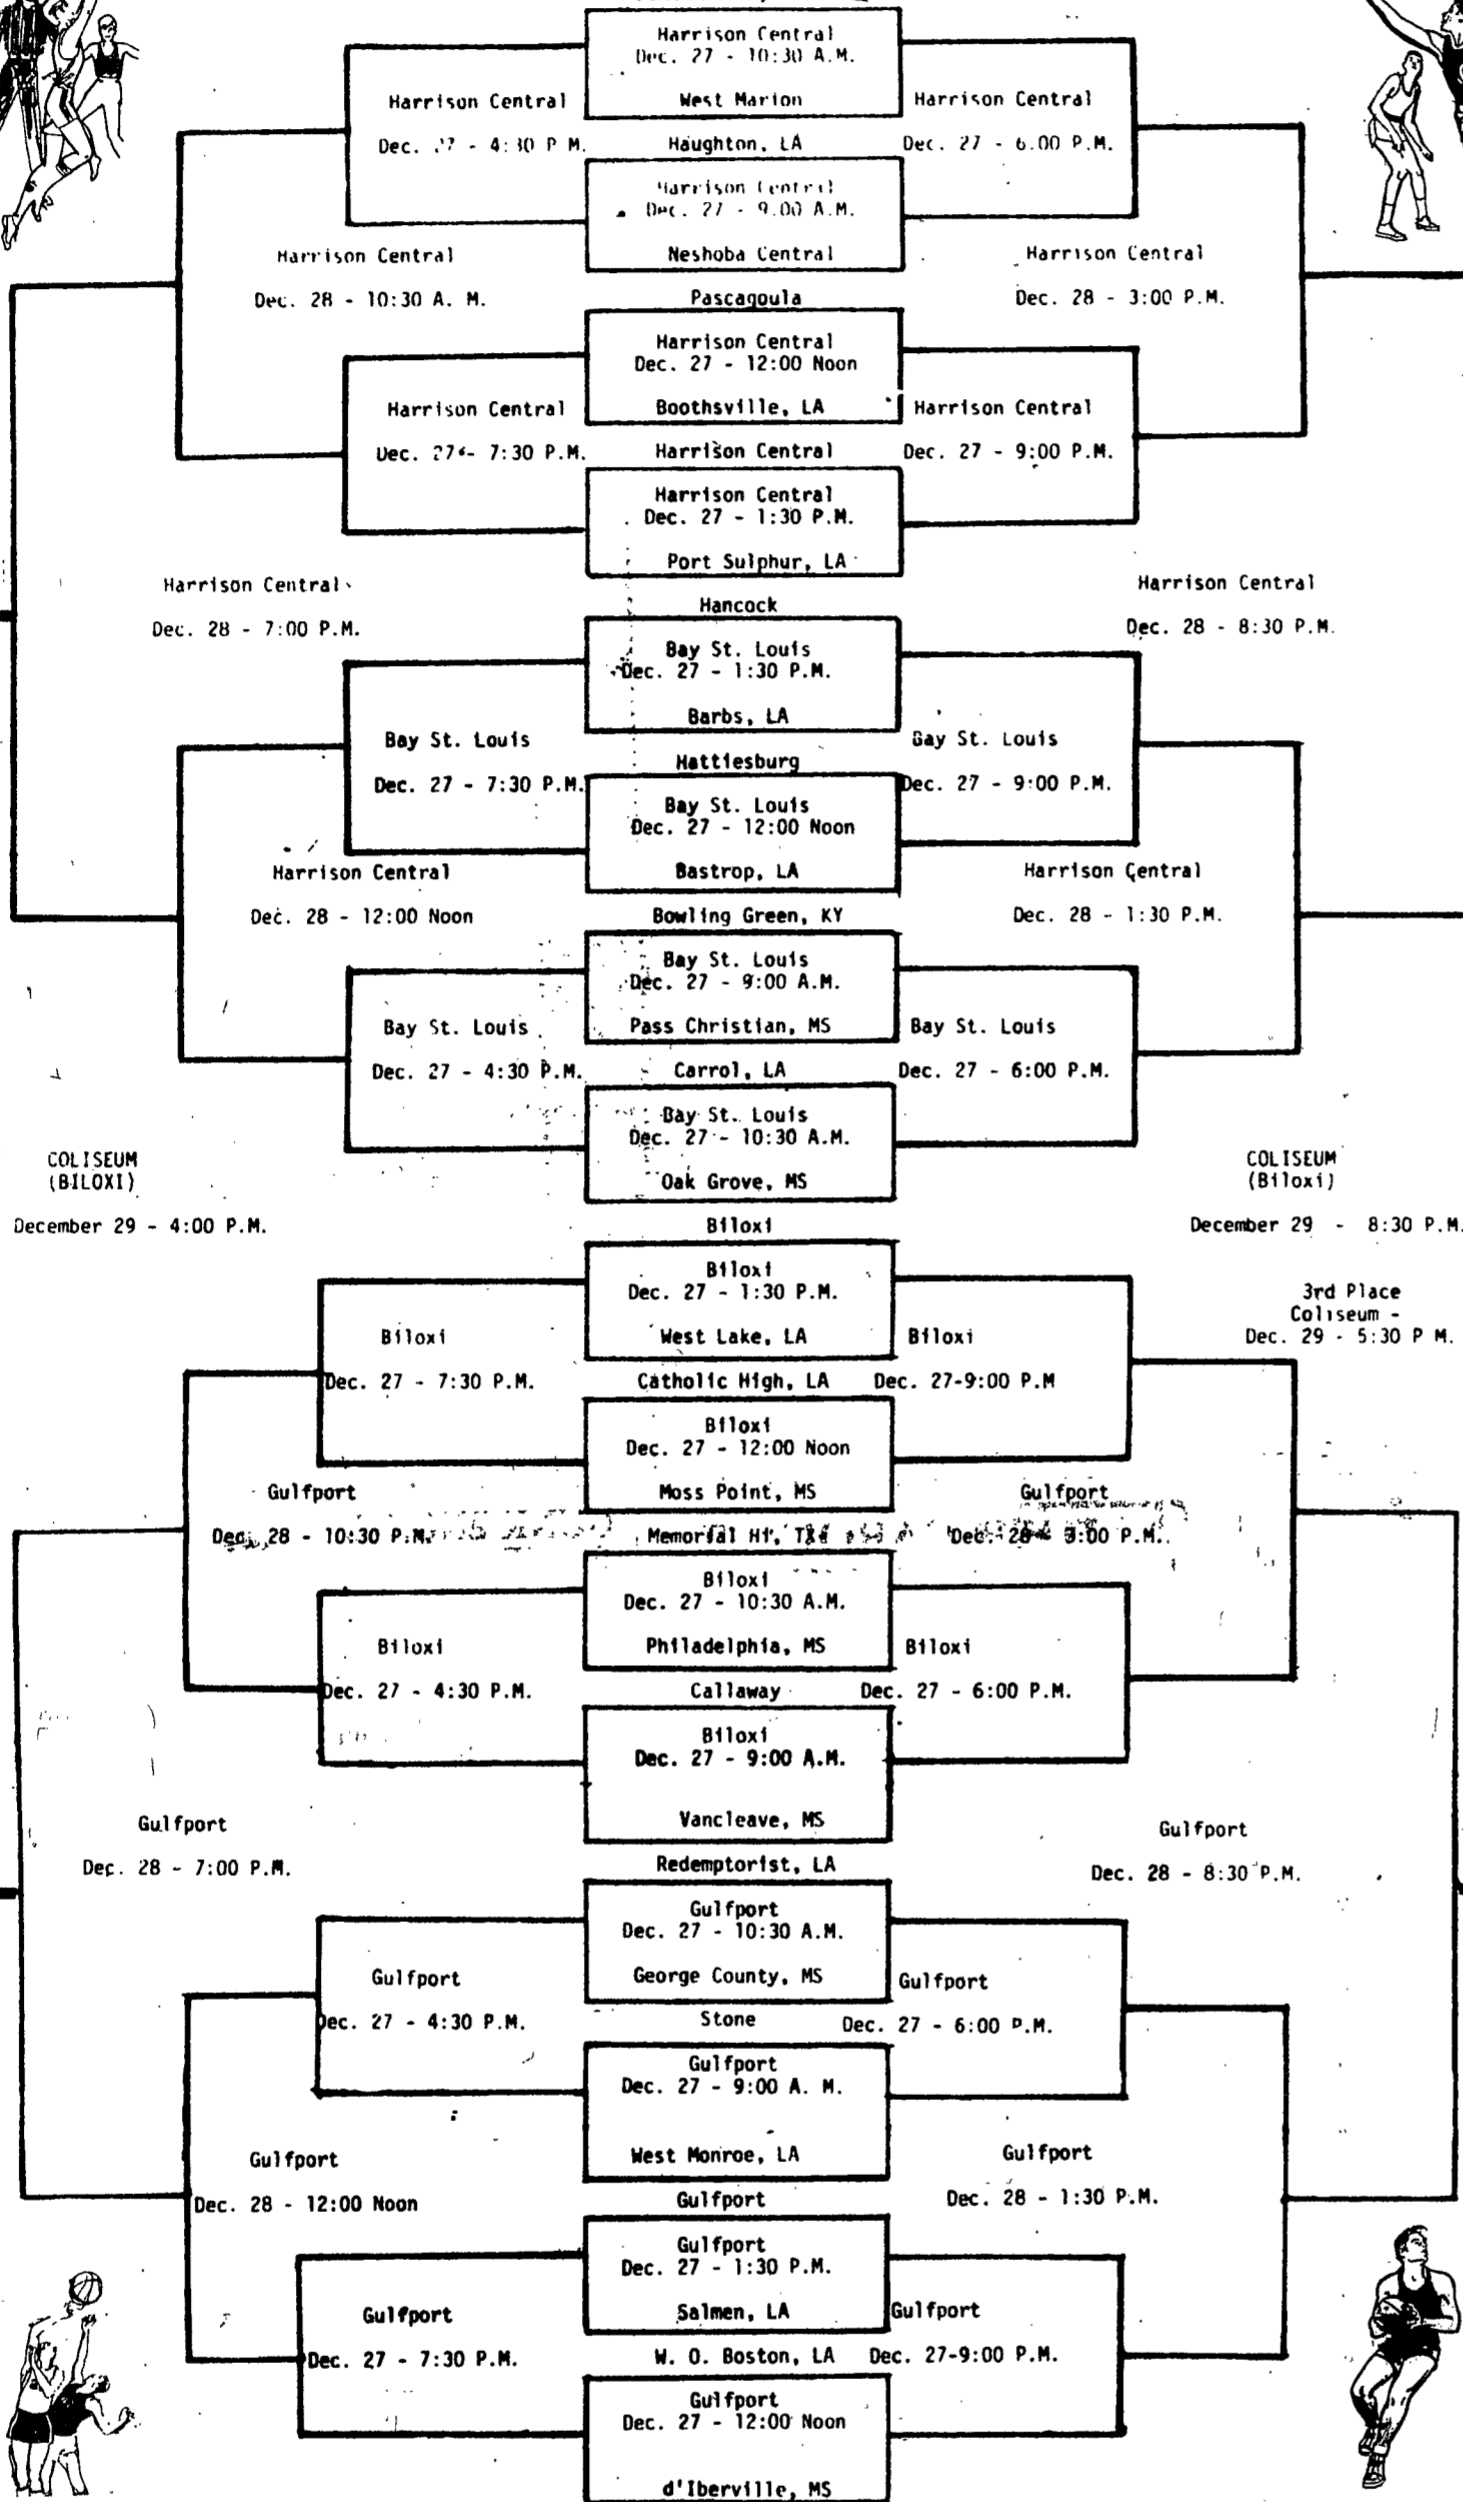

BAY-HIGH COURT ACTION - Thyron Williams passes the ball over outstretched arms of St. Martin players as Bay High's Alex Gillum, No. 31, awaits the pass. Tiger cager Thomas Bailey, No. 40, is also in on the play. (Staff photo - Leslie Williams)

Tigerdome hosts 6 games in coach's 'dream come true'

Boy's Bracket

J McGauck, Tenn.

By RICH ADAMS

The dream of Hancock North Central Basketball Coach Roland Ladner of a 32-team holiday basketball invitational on the Gulf Coast will be realized Dec. 27-29 as teams from five states meet for the first annual Mississippi Gulf Coast Jaycee Holiday Classic.

Coach Ladner began preparation of plans for the event close to a year ago after attending the Houston Jaycee Classic in Texas in 1974 and 1975. Local teams participating in the 32-team field are Hancock North Central and Pass Christian.

Preliminary games will be played at Bay St. Louis Tiger Stadium in Hancock County, Harrison Central Stadium in Gulfport, Biloxi Stadium in Biloxi, and in Gulfport High in Gulfport.

Final games will take place in the Biloxi Coast Coliseum on Dec. 29.

Hancock North Central plays Barbs, La. on Dec. 27 at 1:30 p.m. at Tiger Stadium, and Pass Christian goes against Bowling Green, Ky. at 9 a.m. Dec. 27.

All games for the girls bracket of the tournament will take place in the Pass Christian High School gymnasium, with the Hawkettes meeting Buckeye, La. Dec. 27 at 6 p.m. and the Lady Pirates playing George County Dec. 27 at 7:30 p.m.

Coach Ladner feels the exposure to fine basketball will be good for Gulf Coast residents.

Ladner said college coaches and scouts would be present at the tournament to see local talent in action and added the invitational will be a boost to tourist activity.

keeping you in touch

By F. M. Kyle, Jr.
Gulf Coast District Manager

This year, Christmas and New Year's Day both fall on Monday. But if you dial your One-Plus holiday calls early—the weekend before—you can get a lot more call for your money.

You can save money on most long distance calls if you make them during the night and weekend discount periods. And if you dial calls yourself, the One-Plus way, you save even more.

If you have relatives or good friends living so far away that it's difficult to visit them, chances are that you see them only on very special occasions. Between visits, keep in touch by long distance and brighten your day and theirs.

The one-minute rate on coast-to-coast, interstate long distance calls is 21 cents when you dial the easy One-Plus way. This rate is in effect from 11 every night until 8 the next morning, all day Saturday and until 5 p.m. Sunday.

Make someone happy this holiday season... make a loving phone call. Where else can you get so much for so little?

If you are looking for a different Christmas gift, consider a gift certificate from South Central Bell.

Here's how it works for Mississippi customers. You select the type of telephone or service you want to give; the person who receives the certificate has the pleasure and convenience of choosing from the styles and colors of phones or types of services that are available.

You can have service connection charges billed to your telephone, and any recurring charges billed to your telephone or to the recipient's telephone. Arrangements for installation will be made when the gift is selected.

You can pick up a gift certificate at the telephone business office or PhoneCenter Store. Or we can mail it to you or the person you are giving a gift.

Come by your nearest PhoneCenter Store or call the business office today. Let South Central Bell take the hassle out of last minute shopping—and make a Merry Christmas merrier!

Low One-Plus rates do not apply to Zero-Plus dialed calls, operator handled calls, coin telephone calls, or calls from a hotel or motel.

In girl's action, the Hawkettes defeated Stone 52-41. Joye Lee netted 21 points for the HNC ladies, and Shaynon and Sheila Ladner scored 10 points each.

The Hawks lost to Quad-A power Terrebonne of Houma, La. in a game played at HNC Tuesday night, 58-52.

Dedeaux was high scorer again for the Hancock crew with 17 points, followed by Shaw with 15 points and Arcement with 14.

The Hawks now sit at 9-3 for the season.

Pass explodes to swamp

Notre Dame, 96-60

The Pass Christian Pirates swamped the Notre Dame Rebels with a balance scoring drive after a first quarter deficit, 96-60.

Al Howard led the Pirate attack with 20 points. Other Pirates adding to the Pass Christian scoring were C. J. Bowser with 16 points, Carl Bowser, 13, and Kevin Woods and Charles Lawton with 12 points each.

Neil Broussard and Randy Sentell topped the Rebel scoring with 17 points each.

Broussard made 11 free throws and Sentell tossed in seven field goals.

The Pirates resume play tomorrow against the Stone County Tomcats.

MSU tennis squad eyes LSU tourney

Fully recovered from last spring's ailments and anxious for retribution, Mississippi State's men's tennis team opens a 28-match, five-tournament spring slate on Feb. 2-4 in the LSU Invitational.

Three players who performed with injuries and freshman promisee Alan Hudspeth of Jackson give the MSU netmen good hopes for improving on last year's 11-14 overall finish.

Shelby Ware (back) of New Orleans, La., Randy Purdum (knee) of Laurel, and No. 1 singles man Mark Thompson (ankle) of Jackson should be healthy for the 1979 campaign.

Coach Chris Baxter can also call upon improved senior Jim Harris of West Palm Beach, Fla., Bolivian Junior champion Alex Zalesky of LaPaz Bolivia, and juco signee Janos Latura of Manhattan, N.Y. for key aid.

Of prime concern to the team is maintaining a healthy sextet for the whole campaign after as many as two to three players missed numerous matches last year.

"Some people gained some valuable experience by playing against a much tougher opponents than they would have ordinarily met," said Head Coach Chris Baxter, who begins his third year at the helm.

"If we can stay well this year, we should be very competitive," he added. "The schedule is tough, but it should prepare us for the Southeastern Conference tournament."

Coming off a 2-1-1 fall campaign, the MSU netman are led by Thompson, who won three prestigious summer tournaments after capturing his second straight Mississippi Intercollegiate crown in No. 1 singles. For his overall effort he was accoladed with the Slew Hester Trophy as Mississippi amateur tennisman of the year.

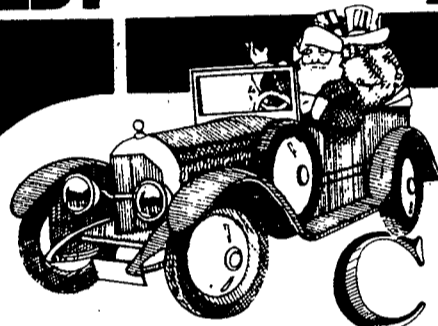

The remainder of the top six and the doubles' formation still remains somewhat clouded, and Baxter plans to provide ample test matches when practice resumes in January.

"Each year it becomes tougher to compete," said the head coach, "but we feel that this year's group is dedicated to winning and will be improved over last year's team."

We hope to improve most noticeably in our tournament play.

ETV CHRISTMAS SPECIAL—The story of an extraordinary, short-lived truce which took place on a Christmas day during World War I is illustrated with a series of dream-like watercolors in December 25th, 1914, a segment of SIMPLE GIFTS: SIX EPISODES FOR CHRISTMAS, an original holiday special. Underwritten in part by a grant from Beneficial Finance System and produced by WNET-THIRTEEN, N.Y., SIMPLE GIFTS presents a special view of the holiday season as perceived by famous writers, artists and animators, and will be seen nationally Saturday, Dec. 23, 4 p.m., on METV.

Park Commission authorizes new facility on Pearl River

The Mississippi Park Commission has approved development of LeFleur's Bluff State Park on the Pearl River in Jackson.

The park will be part of a recreation and conservation corridor covering an area along the Pearl River from the Ross Barnett Reservoir to Elton Road, cutting through the city.

According to Aubrey Rozzell, executive director of the Mississippi Park Commission, several agencies will participate in development of the corridor.

A task force has been named to investigate the areas of responsibility. Members are Frank Alley, Mississippi Park Commission; Joe Leach, Mississippi Research and Development Center; Keith Harkins, Pearl River Basin Development District; Ken Robertson, City of Jackson; John Snuggs, Mississippi Highway Department; Jim Vaughan, Central Mississippi Planning Development District, and DeWitt Day, landscape architect.

Located on the west side of the Pearl River, south of the Mississippi Coliseum, the LeFleur's Bluff State Park will not follow the style of the traditional state park, but will be a more passive, natural development. Boat docks, picnic areas and nature trails will be included. The land for the park has been leased by the State of Mississippi from the City of Jackson.

Funds for the project are provided by Mississippi House Bill 660, a bill that gave the Park Commission the largest sum of money for recreational development in its history.

Heirlooms ideal gifts from old to young

By FLORENCE ROBBINS
Pass Library
Volunteer

A priceless gift from a grandparent can be an heirloom. Webster defines an heirloom as "any piece of personal property owned by one family for several generations."

What could be more personal than the family tree? Alex Haley's Roots has inspired a great deal of interest in genealogy among high school age students.

Here is a gift which involves labor and time but probably little expenditure of money. If you do not know how to make a family tree, the library has books which show the several systems.

Grandmother might embroider one, or even a coat of arms if there is one with the name, and grandfather makes the frame. If one has artistic skill it can be done in beautiful script, but even a typewritten one can be welcome.

Even more treasured would be a family history. We know one grandfather who spent several years researching and visiting and finally completed a copy of the family history for each grandchild.

For the person doing the research this can be shocking, startling and fun. One grandmother found herself descended from Jonathan Edwards, that fiery Yankee preacher.

If you have not read "Marriage to an Impossible Man," the story of his remarkable wife and daughters, you have an historical treat in store.

Since his descendants can be traced from a president of Yale, the first president of Princeton and a renowned traitor, Aaron Burr, this family history proved of interest.

What about taped reminiscences? The Pass Christian Library has a very fine collection, presented with its file cabinet by the Pass Christian Historical Society.

This is carefully kept under lock and key but can be used under supervision to give an idea of now it can be done.

How treasured in years to come would be a tape of grandmother's reminiscences of family holidays or grandfather's first car or sea voyage.

Less scholarly tracings can be done with needlecraft. Cross stitch samples are still valued and can give family dates in their artistry.

The popular needlepoint and bargello pillows can start their journey through Webster's several generations now, - with initials or a name woven into their design or a picture of the child's hobby or collection.

We saw one with a small elephant for a child who collects elephants. The Gulfport Library has an extensive collection on dweel, needlepoint and other skills. The Pass Christian Library has a small but good one.

Books may be borrowed long enough to follow designs and designs may be run off on the copier. Perhaps we should remind grandmothers here that one of the most precious heirlooms is quilts and recipes are always welcome.

The artistic person can do watercolors or painting which will be treasured. We saw one collage of old family photographs and pictures assembled skillfully and carefully for each grandchild.

Furniture is the item which comes to mind most often as an heirloom. A piece that grandfather made is proudly displayed. He can refinish pieces which his own grandfather made, now of great value.

Meanwhile, grandmother is not idle for she is completing the needlepoint seats for two chairs given to recently married granddaughters. When asked what she is doing she replies "making heirlooms."

The act of giving itself is important. If you want a child to have an heirloom the surest way is to give it now, the safest way if the child is young is to give it to parents who can be trusted to care for it.

But if you wish to live with it a while longer, don't just tell Johnny that it will be his "some day." Put it specifically in your will. Of course your lawyer can see that such items are listed, but to help you understand how to do it, there are some excellent books on the making of wills in the library.

A recent gift of an old silver baby cup brought this request from the baby's mother: "Please tell me the history of the cup so that I may write it in her book."

This showed that an heirloom is treasured and welcomed and reminds us that "things" have histories, too. Books can be heirloom gifts. Love over the family library. Now is the time to pass along a genealogy, books autographed by the authors of inscribed by someone in the family to mark an occasion.

A book of Bible reading of exceptional quality containing some of the world's finest religious paintings was re-bound, imprinted with the child's name for his 9th birthday by the grandfather who had received it on his own 9th birthday. The inscription from his mother was on the flyleaf.

It is fun to become an ancestor when one can look back to the source of an heirloom and ahead to the generations who will own it in the years to come.

(Editor's note: HEW Secretary Joseph Califano notes we are the first four-generation society in the history of mankind.)

Pass GI on firing line with 'tank equalizer'

U.S. Army Spec. 4 Raymond Fitzgerald of Pass Christian, manning TOW guided missiles in West Germany, reports his weapon helps neutralize the numerical superiority of Russian tanks in Europe.

When you are outnumbered three to one, you need an equalizer. And the TOW missiles help a lot in that regard," Fitzgerald explained.

"I think it's definitely a very good weapon, a very effective weapon," he said, and given the numerical superiority of Soviet tanks in Europe a good weapon is important," he added.

"The TOW (tube launched optically sighted wire guided missile) has a range of about 3,730 meters - 3,000 effective," explained Fitzgerald. "It can penetrate 27 inches of steel or some 50-plus inches of concrete. It will destroy tanks, bunkers, and helicopters and planes moving less than 150 mph."

"We can have ours ground mounted or mounted on the Armored Personnel Carrier, it just depends upon the situation," he continued.

"Once the 'war' starts, if we've got a good place to hide our tracks we'll be track mounted. But we may be in a position and not have enough camouflage to hide our track. So we may leave it back in the woods, say no further than 15-20 yards, because the whole TOW system itself is pretty heavy for four men to carry very far. Then we'll ground mount our TOW," he went on.

Fitzgerald's strategy, should combat start, is one of constant movement.

"What we do is move up, shoot and move back," he explained. "Once you shoot, you've got to move. The system depends on that. It's usually shoot, move, shoot, move. You have to because the advance sensors the enemy may have can pick up the heat of the TOW backlash and we would be in trouble. Fitzgerald, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Fitzgerald of Route 3, Pass Christian, has no doubt about his mission in Germany.

"Our job is to go out and kill tanks," he stated.

Ag Affairs by Ed Blake

OUR FORM OF GOVERNMENT By ED BLAKE Ag Affairs

Two Mississippi agricultural leaders have mounted the soapbox repeatedly over the past year with pleas for rank and file Mississippians to help turn around the direction this nation is headed.

Those two were heard again last week at Biloxi as they addressed the 57th annual meeting of the Mississippi Farm Bureau Federation and renewed their pleas.

Hugh Arant, federation president, asked the statewide gathering of farm people to exercise their citizenship responsibilities especially concerning voting in his annual address. It is a theme consistent with Arant's appearances over the state and nation during the past year. He sees America going second rate, and believes the polling place is the best place to turn it around.

Jim Buck Ross, Mississippi's Commissioner of Agriculture and Commerce, addressed the farm group on the Coast warning them of the problem of inflation which has helped cause this nation to fall behind in its fiscal responsibilities to the tune of a $750 billion interest payment due by the taxpayers annually.

The commission would like to see the U. S. Constitution changed - requiring that our overly benevolent political leaders restrict national spending to our national income. If we don't get on a pay-as-you-go basis, the Commissioner believes, this nation soon will be bankrupt - requiring changes in either our form of government or our monetary system.

Our monetary system already is in distress, dropping constantly on the foreign exchange. Our form of government seems unwilling to set aside political considerations long enough to achieve any semblance of the statesmanship required to stabilize our budget. And just in case anybody is listening, Commissioner Ross believes a 12 percent reduction in the national budget starting with welfare program reductions is enough to begin repairing the dyke.

Some foreign nations have scoffed at our republic for a long time now - predicting its decline and fall for reasons that appear only too ominous. To fully appreciate the republic we have, it helps to look at the alternatives.

First, a democratic republic such as ours is structured so that all power belongs to the people who elect representatives to operate their government for them. The United States also is a democracy. All people are considered equal and may have an equal voice in making governmental decisions - which they do either personally or through elected representatives.

When one person or a group of clever, powerful men and women seize a government, often by force, that government is called an autocracy, a dictatorship, or an oligarchy. These are all terms for totalitarian forms of government. Some types of totalitarian governments follow communism where the government owns most business and property. Some are fascist, with most property continuing in private ownership, but with one party controlling the government and the economy. And, as under communism, personal liberty is severely limited.

Some countries are monarchies - ruled by kings, queens and aristocrats who inherit the right to rule from their ancestors. Today in some Asian and African nations monarchs have the power to make all governmental decisions. In England and the Scandinavian countries, however, the monarch's power is mostly symbolic - and while the king or queen sign state papers, the real decisions are made by elected leaders.

Finally, there is the anarchy composed of people who believe in no government, but today no nation in the world subscribes to the anarchy bit. It is obvious that the most freedom and liberty is provided by the democratic republic.

But these are guaranteed only if you and I protect them by becoming involved in the exercise of the responsibilities that come and go with them!

St. Clare Sodality party honors clergy

The Sodality of Our Lady of St. Clare's Parish held its annual Christmas party and covered dish dinner Saturday, December 2, in parish hall.

The Christmas theme was used in the hall and table decorations. Members and their guests were presented Christmas corsages.

Mrs. Edythe Wilhelm, organist, provided a program of Christmas carols during the evening.

Mrs. Leslie Galivan, chairman of the event, presented a silver tray to Mrs. Eugene Dorman, outgoing prefect.

There were 165 members and guests attending. Honored guests were Rev. Msgr. John Scanlon, pastor of St. Clare's parish and Rec. Clarence Howard, SVD., associate pastor, and Dominican sisters from St.

Clare's convent.

Mrs. Ivey Cox was elected prefect of the Sodality at the November 28 meeting in parish hall.

Others elected to serve for the coming year are Mrs. Joseph Roppolo, vice prefect; Mrs. Robert Mendow, recording secretary; Mrs. Morgan O'Rourke, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Adrien Chagnard, treasurer, and Mrs. Edward Canady, publicity.

According to Mrs. Eugene Dorman, outgoing prefect, the group will not hold a regular meeting in December because of the holidays.

The next meeting will be January 23, 1979.

Mrs. Dorman and Mrs. Harry O'Neill hosted the Nov. 28 social hour for the 41 members attending.

Coach's clinic features top football speakers

Directors of the 16th annual Gulf Coast Football Coaching Clinic have selected the dates and featured speakers for the annual 1979 confab.

The well-established gathering will be held on Friday and Saturday, Jan. 19-20 at the Sheraton-Biloxi Motor Hotel adjacent to the Gulf of Mexico.

And the four speakers who will grace the platform are among some of the most notable lecturers and successful on-the-field coaches in the nation.

Included on the agenda are Mississippi State offensive coordinator Jimmy Sharpe, Head Coach Billy Brewer of Southeastern Louisiana, Head Coach A.L. Williams of Northwestern (La.) State University and Head Coach Charles Hall of San Diego, (Calif.) Oceanside High School.

Sharpe joined the MSU staff in 1978 after serving as head coach at Virginia Tech for four seasons and after being an assistant coach and former team captain at Alabama for 11 years.

Brewer recently completed his fifth successful year at SLU but it is well-known in Mississippi coaching circles after several successful years in high school football at Columbus.

Williams has produced some of the nation's top quarterbacks, both in his high school days at Shreveport, La., Woodlawn HS and at Northwestern. Two of his finest proteges are current NFL standouts Terry Bradshaw and Joe Ferguson.

Hall, who has guided Oceanside High School to four conference titles, has also coached two unbeaten teams there and is regarded as one of the top grid mentors on the West Coast.

With this fine array of clinicians, GCCC officials are anticipating a turnout which could even surpass last year's record showing.
